Lucky Peter Robinson

They say that lightning never strikes the same place twice, but don't tell that to Peter Robinson. Peter is from Chicago, USA, and lightning struck (היכה) him three times in the past five years!

The first time that lightning struck Peter was in 1996. He was struck again in the year 2000. When lightning struck Peter for the third time, he was outside with his kids. Luckily, his kids were not hurt. When it hit him it hurt. He fell down and his body started to shake. For a few minutes, Peter didn't know where he was. He felt very hot and wanted to take off his shirt. His wife Sandra ran to help. She says that when she touched her husband, she felt an electric shock.

Lightning is so strong that it can kill a person. But lightning doesn't often strike people. The chances that it will strike the same person three times are very small – one in several million. This means that Peter is very special.

But Peter doesn't feel special – he feels afraid. He knows that he is lucky to be alive. Now, whenever it rains, Peter stays inside.

TIME TRAVEL

Do you believe in time travel? You don't? Well then, listen to my story. My name is Ben. Today we moved into a new house. My room is at the top of the house. Someone told me that an inventor lived here and worked in this room. One day he went into the room, shut the door and no one ever saw him again.

While I was putting my clothes in the closet I found a strange ball with three buttons. I didn't know what it was. I pushed one button. Suddenly the ball became hot and then the room turned dark, I saw different colors and then the room was light again. Everything was normal. I was still in the room but it was different now. I wasn't alone. There was a young man wearing old-fashioned clothes. The calendar on the wall said 1974.

"Who are you?" I asked. "Where am I?"

"So you found my time machine," the man said. "Be careful. It gets hot when you push the button. If the ball falls out of your hands, you can't get back to the present."

We sat and talked. He told me that he had invented the time machine. One day, the ball fell out of his hands and he got lost in time. I told the man that I was from the year 2018. He wanted to know all about computers, smartphones and the Internet.

"How do I return to the present?" I asked.

"Push the middle button and you go back to the present."

"What is this button on the right?" I asked.

"That is for the future."

"Goodbye, I'll visit you again," I said. Then I pushed the middle button.

The ball became hot again and the room turned dark and light many times. Suddenly I was back in 2018. I hid the ball in my closet. Maybe tomorrow I will travel into the future and see what is new there.

Special Sheep

Peter Robinson is a sheep farmer from New Zealand. He has a big flock of happy and healthy sheep. What is the secret of his success?

Peter gave each of the 800 sheep in his flock a name of its own. He feels that this makes the sheep happy and he believes that happy sheep make a lot of good wool. His wife agrees but she says that it was very hard to find 800 names.

Peter has such a good memory that he can remember the name of each sheep, as well as its mother and grandmother. He has records of 30,000 sheep. The trouble is that the sheep don't have such a good memory. They don't come when he calls them by name. Luckily, he has a good sheepdog and he helps him bring the sheep together.

Peter says that it helps him to know about each animal and its family history. This way he can take care of health problems before they happen. Thanks to his flock, Peter won a prize for making the best wool. He is delighted and his wife says that he deserves it because he works so hard.
